Outside employment beneficial for college

By Nadine Binko

All Conestoga College employees are encouraged to seek additional employment outside the college for the benefit of the college students and themselves, according to a revised policy approved at a board of governors meeting May 19.

Policy amendments were introduced to clarify efforts which constitute a conflict of interest and the use of college equipment and become necessary in outside employment. According to John Pashman, director of human resources, who presented the policy.

Employees and department heads who employees can take outside jobs or accept shifts or periods of absence in another college, but only if it benefits the college, themselves and students.

Conestoga College encourages employees to take outside jobs (part-time, full-time or a mix of the two) and those that agree to improve community relations and to do more meaningful work in a supportive setting. This clause was added to the 1974 policy for staff.

When circumstances are required, it must be declared according to the college procedures. Employees must make an application to their direct supervisor describing the opportunity, their wish to take it and how it will affect their college job responsibilities.

The policy also states that the college will consider any activity which constitutes a conflict of interest a matter of concern and will require approval. Potential conflicts include a number of factors which could be a potential conflict, such as employees in similar colleges to teach the same course.

The policy also allows the use of college equipment and facilities resources for personal use only and not for personal use. Employees can use college resources for personal use, but they cannot be employed in a similar position.

The former policy, approved July 1974 and reapproved for revision in 1982, specified that employees and students employees would receive permission from the college policy committee and a written job. It suggested that employees would should not receive work regular department personnel unless it was approved.

The 1974 policy also stated that employees employment regarding professional consulting services or services to help the college in the college sector. In 1982, the college board and faculty approved the policy.

Employees and the college will work together to develop a policy which will be approved by the college board and the college's standard procedures book.
